

Level 3 Surveillance Course

Surveillance and Intelligence training

---

Introduction

Our surveillance training courses have pioneered the way in which covert surveillance training has been delivered to various agencies and individuals including government and military and also the commercial sector. Our surveillance training courses are structured in such a way that delegates are taught the theory aspects of surveillance and then instructed in the practical surveillance aspects. The level of instruction and knowledge provided by CTR Services ensures we are one of the leaders in surveillance training worldwide and this is proven by the level of client that we have worked with in the past.

We were also the first UK training provider to design and implement a Level 3 qualification for surveillance training and have since devised further surveillance courses that have pioneered this particular sector such as our Level 3 Hostile Intelligence Operators Course (HIOC) which incorporates covert surveillance training with live firearms drills and advanced techniques in order to enable operatives to confidently operate on foreign soil (military units only).

About CTR Surveillance training

This Surveillance training course was designed by CTR Services to cater for the demand of the professional operative or investigator.

The methods employed for training ensures learners gain the required level of instruction as the course is predominately practically based.

The course is broken down into ten modules, these are:

- Introduction & Roles of the Surveillance Operative
- Stages of surveillance
- Static Surveillance
- Mobile Surveillance
- Technical Surveillance
- Planning & Preparation
- The Intelligence Cycle
- Legislation
- Surveillance Awareness
- Equipment & Photography

We are accredited by the Open College Network and Skills for Security, we are also accredited by Bucks New University and preferred suppliers to the MOD with the Career Transition Partnership.

The recognition of the Surveillance training course is second to none and during the blended learning you will develop a portfolio which prepares you for the future within the surveillance sector.

Who should attend?

The course has been designed for those persons seeking to improve their career in surveillance and security as a whole by gaining a recognised covert surveillance qualification. On completion of the course you will have developed a portfolio of learning evidence and suitable skills to improve your chances of success. The course is suited to those leaving the military as we are ELCAS and CTP registered, security professionals looking to improve their skill and knowledge base and those people that are new to the industry.

Surveillance Qualifications and Work Progression

As this course is based around surveillance & intelligence operations within the UK, it has a portfolio that develops students for career progression within professional investigations and other aspects of the security market.

The portfolios of certificates you will gain by the end of the course are:

- CTR SIOC Certificate.
- OCN Level 3 Surveillance Certificate.
- Skills for Security Surveillance Certificate.
